Sarah Babb is a highly experienced executive and organisational and leadership change specialist working across the profit and non-profit sectors. She manages remote, cross-functional teams, and leads multiple large-scale programmes across regions to reach shared vision and goals. Having worked with an array of companies both locally and internationally, from tech start-ups through to large corporates, she has helped teams with shifting culture and practices to be more dynamic and future-fit.

Sarah has facilitated change and development processes with multiple recognisable multinational corporations, leading large-scale transformative projects, managing multiple stakeholders, facilitating change processes and managing multi-media TV and newspaper dissemination along with roadshows and presentations. She designed and was the Head Tutor for an Online Women In Leadership Programme with GetSmarter (2U) and has coached executives virtually including Saudi Arabia, Europe, Namibia, South Africa and the USA.
